HTTP methods

- GET

- HEAD

- POST

and more. But those are the most common ones.

What would the HTTP requests look like?

New comment:

POST /api/comments (with text and author)

server adds the timestamp, and adds to the list of comments.

replies OK.

Fetch all comments:

GET /api/comments

(an array of comments comes back in the response body)